If you unsubscribe from the FSU Law Focus, you will only be unsubscribed from the newsletter and not other emails from FSU Law.

Julisa Renaud is originally from Miami. She holds bachelor’s degrees in criminology and Southern Florida studies from Florida State University. After graduating from Florida State University, she attended the University of Miami School of Law in 2019.

During the fall of her 2L year, Renaud externed with the Innocence Project of Florida, representing clients in matters relating to immigration law. During the spring of her 2L year, Renaud participated in the PILC Immigration and Farmworker Project. She prepared immigration rulings and case law. During the summer of 2020, Renaud clerked at Earthjustice, where she researched environmental law issues in anticipation of her future legal career.

Renaud plans to work at Earthjustice in the fall of 2020. Currently, Renaud is clerking for the Florida Administrative Law Appeals Commission. She provides assistance and representation to individuals and organizations in administrative law cases. Renaud also conducts research for pending and proposed legislation to determine judicial impact and reviews contracts and documents for the commission.

Renaud participated in the Florida State University Law School’s Justice Clinic. She provides assistance and representation to individuals and organizations in administrative law cases. Renaud also conducts research for pending and proposed legislation to determine judicial impact and reviews contracts and documents for the commission.

Renaud is an active member of the Student Bar Association (SBA) and serves as the SBA’s vice president. She is also a member of the ABA Health Law Section’s HIPAA & Data Privacy Task Force and the National Association of Women Lawyers (NAWL). Renaud is a member of the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Inc. (LDF) and the Hispanic National Bar Association (HNBA) as well.

Renaud recently co-authored a chapter on HIPAA and data privacy, which explains and provides updates on HIPAA. "Writing a book has been a goal of mine for many years, so I was excited to finally get the opportunity to co-author a chapter on HIPAA," Renaud said.

"I am grateful for the support and encouragement of my mentors and colleagues at FSU Law who made this project possible," Renaud said. "It has been a rewarding experience to contribute to the legal profession and the health industry."