judges whose professional role and calling is to serve the ends of justice during their time of need. I certainly have Florida State Law and many mentors to thank for showing me a path that has allowed me to begin. My most significant priorities are empathy, timeliness, and professionalism, and I am profoundly grateful for the example that the FSU Law alumni have set for me!”

Anne Murphy is from Gainesville, Florida. She earned a bachelor’s degree in communications and English literature from Florida State University and earned a master’s degree in human rights law from Columbia University. She is expected to graduate in May 2022.

“FSU does not practice politics among the foundational tenets, lawyers, and judges: those professionals are called to serve the ends of justice. That which is the compelling conception of justice therefore, is what drives each and every student and professor to be dedicated to service. What is at stake in transparency, accountability, and professionalism is I am grateful for the opportunity to meet with some of these passionate former faculty members and to connect with the FSU alumni in a professional capacity.”

“With the help of an experienced lawyer, even a complicated legal issue can be resolved. A lawyer can help you understand your rights and guide you through the legal process. They can also help you negotiate settlements and represent you in court.”
